

Manager, Project Finance

Nokomis Energy is a Minneapolis based energy developer with a mission to accelerate local energy adoption through equitable partnerships. Nokomis is seeking a Project Finance Lead to support creation of a platform that will be used by the Company's development teams to originate, develop, and finance a broad pipeline of projects. The Director will be responsible for updating, creating, and implementing processes to facilitate and streamline the development of the Company's clean energy projects.

Essential job functions include:

- Responsible for ensuring the development teams are delivering all necessary items needed for development, construction and permanent financing.
- Ensure successful financial closings
- Manage the development process for each of the company's development channels including Community Solar, Commercial & Utility:
 - Managing the company's land origination process and deal pipeline
 - Managing the company's subscriber and offtake process and pipeline
- Lead the portfolio level management of the company's development efforts:
 - Work with the Development Leads to create a project development checklist and schedule
 - Track project development deliverables and schedules in order to group projects for financing events and identify critical path development items
 - Identify tasks and deliverables for the Development Leads and supporting team members throughout development
 - Support the transaction diligence for financing events
 - Support the handoff to Construction and Operations
 - Continually identify and implement process improvements
 - Participate in project and company cash planning

Location: Minneapolis, Minnesota

Terms of Employment: Full-time, salary $60-100K+ based on performance

About Nokomis –

Our approach is predicated on creating value for all stakeholders involved in a project. We specialize in understanding the full development process from origination, to technology, to long-term operation. Our value comes from our principals having been active in energy development since 2007, in-market resources and partnership approach. Through a combination of development and consulting services we use distributed energy to deliver economic and social benefits to local communities.

Send resume and inquiries to:
connect@nokomisenergy.com